Summary

I have a work experience both in large companies (banking) and in the private business. Being the director of a small company for the last 5 years, I came to the conclusion that the main thing in any profession is cooperation and effective interaction with people.

I approach work with responsibility, following deadlines and with precision in details. I'm not afraid of difficulties and I always bring what I started to the end.

I have a great desire to work in a company where there are opportunities for professional and intellectual development.
